American Soldiers Have Experienced
No Hostile Move to Invasion
Thus Far—May March
At Night.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
El Paso, March 17.—Rapidly growing uneasiness among Americans throughout Mexico, especially in the north and west, was shown today by reports from various sections that the United States citizens were either entirely to the border or were preparing to leave.

At practically every point of entry Americans arrived today from the interior, but in the majority of instances they said they were leaving Mexico merely as a matter of precaution and not because of any acts of hostility.

Tell Disquieting Stories.
The most significant report comes from Durango, where the American vice consul advised that his wife and child had been sent out of the country. This followed closely on the arrival last night of the American consul from Torreon with a large number of Americans.
Americans arriving here told disquieting stories privately about the attitude of Mexicans, the interior, especially in Chihuahua, Durango and Coahuila, but when asked to talk for publication insisted that all was quiet in those sections. They explained the contradictory reports by saying that they were returning to Mexico later, and did not wish to arouse resentment among the Mexicans. An American who arrived today from the city of Chihuahua reported that all was quiet in that section.

The Mexican consulate here received a telegram from General Calles, military governor of Sonora, saying that a Villa spy had been arrested at El Paso, and that the man was in Columbus on the night of the raid.
When questioned he said Villa had fled after the raid to Corralitos, where he murdered several cowboys and stole a number of horses. He then started for Guaymas by way of Puerto Chico.

El Paso, March 17.—A few definite facts about the American expedition into Mexico to destroy the Villa army, which is being reported in officially published reports, and the news brought here by Americans who have been in touch with some portion of the American movement.

It seemed certain that the two columns which were "somewhere in Mexico" one was constituted for the purpose of attacking the Villa army, and the other apparently was moving more slowly. The Villa army, which was the auxiliary army, seemingly mostly cavalry, which went into Mexico fifty miles west of the main army of Pershing when his army crossed at Columbus, N. M.

Columns to Unite.
The secrecy which has surrounded the movements of the main column has been slightly compromised with that of the western force. There is reason to believe from the official announcement that the western column may have gone into Mexico earlier than the main column. Every report arriving here from the border asserts that the western column has traveled farther. By these reports, these two columns may form a junction near the threatened American-Mexican border, possibly in the Casas Grandes region.

Reports that snipers had shot at the troops, remained unverified today.
However, sniping and even the possibility of wounding of a few American soldiers was not regarded here as an indication that the American army's march up to today was otherwise than a plain and ordinary march, so far as the majority of the Mexican people are concerned.

Caranza officials, it was learned today, have been discussing with some of the American army officers the possibility of the American troops during the Villa pursuit into the Casas Grandes region, and the effect of such occupation on Mexican public opinion.

It is estimated here that the cost of the Villa pursuit at present is upwards of $400,000 a day.

No Sniping Reported.
San Antonio, Tex., March 17.—The American expeditionary force has had no casualties and has had no clashes with Villistas, according to a report received today at Fort Sam Houston.
There has been no instance of snip-ing reported.

Sight Marches Probably will be made by Pershing's forces in their search for Villa, who was located today at Fort Sam Houston. Night marches would help to mystify Villa as to the movements of the American column. It is said, because there is no sufficient light for the purpose.
Also they would keep the men and horses fresher. These could be used for reconnoitering.

Daylight marches make it impossible to hide troop movements. Huge clouds of dust indicate the march's progress and are visible at great distances.

Mormons Act as Scouts.
Brigadier General Pershing's dispatches to southern department headquarters confirm reports that the Mormon colonists from Colonia Dublan and Colonia Morrales are acting as scouts for the expedition.

Alchiste secrecy is maintained here as to the distance the American troops have penetrated into Mexico.
Colonel Wm. H. Sage of the 12th infantry at Nogales, has sent dispatches saying that passengers from Hermosillo to Guaymas report very little excitement in Sonora. Captain Robert L. Hildard of the 26th infantry at Harlingen, Tex., however, reports there is considerable excitement in the lower regions.

Caranza Troops Co-operate.
Douglas, Ariz., March 17.—Caranza troops of General Elias Pallas Calles, military governor of Sonora, were handed over to co-operate with the soldiers composing the punitive expedition from the United States in pursuit of Francisco Villa, according to reports received here.

Washington, March 17.—Very satisfactory assurances regarding the attitude of the Caranza government toward the entrance of American troops into Mexico were conveyed to the state department today by Consul Sullivan, who is with General Caranza. He reported no trouble from the Caranza forces was to be expected.

The eyes of administration officials centered today on the desert plains of northern Mexico, where Brigadier General Pershing is leading American troops in pursuit of Francisco Villa and his band of outlaws.

Strict censorship still surrounds the movement of the expedition. Unofficial advice from the border today indicated that the men are far to the south of the American frontier.

Army officials do not expect a clash for several days. Official advice from diplomatic representatives in Mexico reported that all was quiet.

Near Villa Territory.
El Paso, March 17.—Expectation along the border was keyed to its highest pitch today by the general belief that before nightfall the advance guard of the American expeditionary force would have entered Villa territory in the mountains of the Casas Grandes region of Mexico.

Stoughton Man Led

U. S. MOUNTAIN BATTERY PART OF THE PUNITIVE
EXPEDITION SENT INTO MEXICO TO GET VILLA

This mountain battery is a part of the punitive expedition which has gone into Mexico in an effort to get Villa, dead or alive, and to wipe out his marauding bands of followers. These men, most of them seasoned campaigners, veterans of Indian campaigns, are thoroughly familiar with the kind of warfare which will be carried on by Villa in his fight against extermination.

LIMIT THE DEBATE
IN DEFENSE ISSUE

TO REACH A VOTE

Expect to Reach a Vote on Preparedness Measure by Midnight.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, March 17.—Under a rule limiting general debate to ten hours, the house today began considering the army bill—the most extensive proposal for increasing the military establishment ever laid before it in peace times. If possible, a final vote will be reached tomorrow night.

Forty speakers have asked for time.
Republicans and democrats were equally represented on the list, and all were expected to favor a wide degree of national preparedness, whatever their attitude might be on the committee bill.

Chairman Hay of the military committee, and Representative Kahn, rankings republican member, apportionment, were expected to speak. No general opposition was in evidence. The committee bill.

Speaker Clark, who will deliver an address in support of the measure, surrendered the chair to Rep. Garrett of Tennessee at the beginning of the debate.

SHIP'S LOSS
CAUSES STR
HOLLAND

ESTABLISHMENT OF FACT THAT
TUBANTIA WAS TORPEDOED
AROUSING DEEP RESEN-TMENT.

U. S. TO INVESTIGATE

American Consuls in Holland Are Instructed to Get Facts.—Several Casualties Are Now Reported.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
The Hague, March 17.—The loss of one of Holland's finest steamships stirred the country deeply. The sinking of the Tubantia, valued at $1,600,000 and insured for $1,224,000, means loss of valuable cargo space
not easily replaceable.

The opinion accredited to the captain that the Tubantia was torpedoed, adds to the feeling of resentment aroused by the disaster. The Vaderland calls attention to the fact that the vessel was sunk at almost the same time that an announcement was made of the resignation of Admiral Von Tirpitz as German minister of marine and of the statement that his successor would continue submarine warfare without abatement.

This newspaper refers to the cases of other Dutch ships sunk or damaged as result of German "mistakes."
The Vaderland also refers to the fact that the Tubantia was sunk by a German submarine there will be increasing danger that Germany against her wishes may find herself in conflict with neutral states on account of the conduct of her submarine commanders.

The Vaderland voices the hope that the change in leadership of the German marine ministry will be utilized as an opportunity for issuing more binding rules to submarine commanders.

U. S. Consuls to Investigate.
Washington, March 17.—American consuls in Holland have been instructed to investigate the sinking of the Dutch liner Tubantia, with Americans aboard, said to have been torpedoed.
Consular agents at Gibraltar and Lisbon have been instructed to investigate the reported sinking of a French liner torpedoed by the French liner Tubantia.

Hit By a Torpedo.
London, March 17.—A-Z Reuter dispatch from The Hague says that the affidavits made by the first and fourth officers and the lookout man of the Tubantia show that the steamer was hit by a torpedo.

Casualties Reported.
London, March 17.—According to late reports there were undoubtedly some casualties as result of disaster to Holland Lloyd passenger steamer Tubantia yesterday, where a Reuter dispatch from Flushing. Men from the crew who have been landed by Dutch torpedo boats say the vessel was struck amidship in a dense darkness, and that the vessel was hit by a explosion was so terrific some of the life boats on deck were shattered.

The Dutch admiralty states 277 survivors from Tubantia have arrived in Holland, while the rest of the steamship company show there were 381 persons on board, according to Reuter dispatch from The Hague.

Consul and Family Saved.
The Hague, March 17.—The consul and his family were saved. They landed at Hook of Holland and have returned to Amsterdam.
Ship's Crew Unharmed.

Amsterdam, March 17.—In a statement made here today in regard to sinking of the Tubantia, Richard Schilling complains there was lack of organization of the steamship's crew.
He said there were only petty officers on deck, and no officers were assigned to direct the life saving work.

BIG SUNDAY SCHOOL INSTITUTE PLANNED

DELEGATES FROM METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN JANESVILLE DISTRICT TO ATTEND.

OBTAINABLE SPEAKERS

W. S. Bovard, James V. Thompson and Miss Helen Patten Will Furnish Program—Other Denominations Invited.

A Sunday school institute will be held at the Carthage Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church in Janesville beginning next Tuesday afternoon and continuing for two days. It is expected that at least two hundred delegates from the Methodist Sunday schools of the Janesville District will be in attendance at the sessions, besides many visitors from other denominations for the convention is open to all. Rev. Perry Afflar, the District Superintendent of the Janesville District, reports that there is unusual interest in the coming institute and he expects it to be one of the most successful district meetings ever held.

The entire program will be furnished by the Board of Sunday Schools of the Methodist Episcopal church with headquarters at Chicago. The instruction will be given by Rev. William S. Bovard, superintendent of the Age department and Miss Helen Patten, superintendent of the Department of Missionary Instruction. These instructions are a nation-wide reputation as experts in method of Sunday school work, and the program offers exceptional opportunities to the Sunday school workers of the district. They will handle such themes as "Training for Leadership," "The Adult Awakening," "Missionary Instruction in the Sunday School," "The Modern Sunday School Opportunity," "Teen Age Religion."

The institute in Janesville is part of a nation-wide campaign for instructing Sunday school workers in the best methods of up-to-date Sunday school work.

A district executive committee is in charge of local arrangements for the institute, consisting of Rev. Perry Afflar, district superintendent, Janesville; Rev. P. H. Brigham, pastor of Carthage Memorial Methodist Episcopal church; Rev. E. L. Mager, Fort Atkinson; Rev. Loren Knutzen, Watertown; Rev. C. L. Andrews, Whitewater; Rev. H. S. Justina, Stoughton; Rev. W. P. Leck, Jellison; Rev. T. W. North, Delavan, Wisconsin.

Look to the Coffee

"In all cases of so-called neurasthenia, the coffee-drinking of the patient should be inquired into. What has been said about coffee also holds good in regard to tea," says a physician of note.

More and more, people are coming to know that the coffee and tea habits are responsible for a large percentage of those nervous disorders classed under the head of "neurasthenia," or nervous prostration.

Both coffee and tea contain the drug, caffeine, a powerful irritant of the nerves. They also contain tannin—an astringent—which acts most unfavorably upon the intestinal walls. Headache, "nerves," insomnia, biliousness—these are some of the signs of caffeine poisoning.

Many coffee and tea drinkers are learning that the way to health is by quitting coffee and tea; and for a pleasant, healthful drink, using

NOT GUILTY VERDICT IS GIVEN IN TRIAL

Discharge Two Youths Charged With Burglary at Edgerton After Trial Friday.

In the first twelve man jury trial held in the municipal court in many months, a verdict of not guilty was rendered Friday afternoon freeing Carl Stanky of Edgerton on the charge of night time burglary. On the result of this case, the charges against Akkel Stanky of Stoughton, out on bonds on the same charge, was dismissed and both defendants discharged.

Stanky alone was placed on trial yesterday. The evidence in the case was purely circumstantial and both Stanky and Stanky proved an alibi to the satisfaction of the jury. The offense with which the two young men were charged was an alleged burglary at the Ratzlaff brothers' store in Edgerton. After the burglary had been discovered, the watchman found the two youths asleep in a cellar of another building. A flashlight supposed to have been taken from the Ratzlaff store was found outside the door of the stairway leading to the cellar by the night constable. This was the only damaging evidence that the state had to prove their charges. The jury was composed of Paul Buggs, Percy Munger, Arthur Jenkins, E. T. Fish, A. W. Hall, Chris Knudson, William Alderman, F. J. Campbell, William Stendel, Edgar Kohler, Cal Jones and Mart Morse.

BAND CONCERT FUND IS SECURED BY BAND

Bower City Musicians Raise Three Hundred Dollars Among Merchants and Will Give Summer Programs.

Three hundred dollars has been collected by the Bower City Band from Janesville business men. The amount was solicited when plans were made to give a series of concerts during the summer and fall months. The committee in charge of the soliciting finished its work yesterday afternoon and when the total was figured it had reached the three hundred dollar mark, the amount determined necessary to hold the concerts. They are to be held in the Court House Park and at the Corn Exchange. Concert dates and the occasion of the first appearance of the organization during 1916 have not been determined. The band, however, is working hard at the present time on a long program of popular and classical numbers and will be ready when the weather warrants their appearance.

TWO GOOD MATCHES TO BE STAGED TODAY

Jeff Smith and Mike Gibbons to Meet Again in St. Paul, Fulton Clashes With Flynn.

For St. Patrick's day, two big bouts will be staged, when Mike Gibbons the wizard middle-weight and Jeff Smith, meet for ten rounds at St. Paul and Fulton, the man who lost out in the proposed Willard bout fights Jimmy Flynn in Milwaukee. For clean boxing interest the Gibbons-Smith fray has all others faded by a wide margin. In New York City Benny Leonard, the unsuppliable lightweight meets a Shamrock party named O'Brien and Benny should score another victory, even if the name and day is against him.

Mike Gibbons is going to be busy tonight when Jeff Smith steps into the ring with him. Smith has not much of a reputation in the states but he got a full thirty-third degree as a boxer from foreign lands for that is where he obtained all his fame. The St. Paul phantom has not much of a record in the states, but he is said to have been strong, by account with blood color. In 1914 he went to Australia. Here he defeated Chubby McGoorty, and lost a close decision to King, the champion of Oshkosh, Wis., in 1915. Smith knocked out the famous Les Darcy in five rounds at Sydney, and then beat Mike King, giving him the title. He was, however, on losing on a foul by Les Darcy on returning to America. Gibbons defeated him three years ago, and St. Paul fans believe

TOBACCO CITY FIVE WIN AT MILWAUKEE

Edgerton Takes First Game at State Normal Tournament With Waukesha Last Night.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Milwaukee, March 17.—Before a good sized crowd of Edgerton followers the Tobacco City basketball team took another step toward the championship of the state last night in the opening game of the state basketball tournament with the Waukesha high. The Tobacco City team won the game by a score of 19 to 14. At the opening of the struggle they scored the first basket amid the frenzied yells of their followers.

Edgerton soon gained the lead and kept it throughout the game. In the third quarter they met Fond du Lac high school and tomorrow the finals of the tournament will be played. Following is the summary of the games last night:

IF FLYNN IS DEFEATED FULTON WILL GET MATCH WITH CHAMPION WILLARD.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Milwaukee, Wis., March 17.—Fred Fulton and Freeman Jim Flynn will meet before the Cream City Athletic Club. After the sorry showing made by Flynn with Jack Dillon in New York last week, fight fans believe that the Minnesota fighter will have no trouble in earning a decision over Flynn.

Charlie Metrie of Milwaukee and Walter Jacobson of Chicago will meet in a ten round bout in the preliminary and Ned Carpenter of Burlington and Bud Gorman will fight eight rounds at catch weights.

Carpenter and Gorman have been rivals for years for the Wisconsin heavyweight title and the match is expected to settle the dispute.

If Flynn is defeated decisively by Fulton, arrangements will be made for the Minnesota giant to meet Jess Willard in a ten round bout within a short time after the champion's fight with Moran in New York.

BLUE RIBBONS FAIL TO GET HIGH SCORE

Blue Ribbon Five Only Get 2337 Pins Last Night in Second Day of Big Bowling Tournament.

The Blue Ribbon bowlers failed to get in on any high score last night in the second day of the big southern Wisconsin bowling tournament which is now in full swing at the Miller alley. The Ribbon five started out with a fair score in the first event, but in the next two they fell down below their standard. F. Marsh got in for the high score honors in the last part of the game when he got for 237 pins. They knocked in all 2337 pins down. This puts them in first place for the time being at least.

Stern's Twilight five also failed to come up to their standard last night. In all three of the events they did not hit above the 633 mark and in the whole game they only knocked down 1843 pins.

Booth and Buchholz rolled in the doubles, they being the first pair to start in this class. In the three events they hit a total of 878 pins, which is a fairly high score. Booth had the highest score for one game when in the first event he rolled 181 in the singles he fell down and in the three games got only 402 pins. M. B. Penza of Brookfield, did a little better than Booth and in the three games he knocked down 408 pins.

More Entries.

Dr. S. F. Richards, secretary of the association, is receiving more entries every day and indications are that before the close of the tournament on March 21st. There is in between five and six hundred dollars up for prizes and when some of the crack local teams and out-town bowlers get into action the competition will be keen.

This afternoon at one o'clock the Monroe Tigers and the Wilkesville High of Watertown took the all-time record in the event, five, singles and doubles. Both the teams are expected to make some records as they have done in previous tournaments.

NEW STYLE OF PLAY

MAY BEAT WISCONSIN

Eastern Passing and Dribbling Expected to Hamper University in Game With Lakotas.

Providing that the full strength of the University Wisconsin championship team is represented in the game between the conference winners and the Lakotas, should attract the greatest amount of attention of any game on the Cardinal schedule this year. Lewis is the only player on the Varsity who did not express a desire to play in the game Saturday and his place will be filled with a squad player, so that his loss will not rob the Varsity of much of their playing power.

The game should be the fastest of the season as the Badgers play a wonderful and brilliant offensive game. When the Lakotas stand a good show to defeat the Badgers a mixture of the eastern and western style of playing and it is a good guess that the eastern methods are going to hamper the Badgers considerably.

When one of the Varsity boys attempt to stop Young, unless it is wrong guess, the Wisconsin player is going to have the surprise of his life. The more the Lakotas play the back-passing game and dribbling the better chance for a victory. Both Hemming and Adler are acquainted with the university play, having been on the Freshmen team this year in practice. Atwood is considered the equal of any of the Badger forwards, by those who have seen both teams play and as for Dalton, he always manages to take care of himself no matter who his opponent is.

Manager George Caldwell was in Madison today to ascertain that the team as billed would appear for the game. It was rumored that Coach Menawell objected to the team playing here, but so far as is known, the report was not founded on truth.

I. A. C. TEAM AND UTAH PLAY FOR AMATEUR TITLE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Chicago, March 17.—The I. A. C. team of Chicago and the University of Utah, will meet tonight in the finals of the national basketball championship tournament. On Thursday night the Utah team, coached by Norgren, former Maroon star, beat the Chicago Olympics 35 to 26 in a rough and tumble game. The Chicago University students rooted hard for the Mormons and Hunter, two recruits, are making the veteran hustle as he has never been forced to do before and there is, according to report, a good chance for one of the youngsters to land the job. Lobert, who in his day, was a really great ball player, has gradually gone back and has not been the matter to reduce and get down to playing weight.

DAUBER YAEGER TO MEET FRED MUNGER AT "FONDY."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Appleton, Wis., March 17.—Fred Munger of Philadelphia and Dauber Yaeager of Fond du Lac will make up the St. Patrick's day card for the enthusiasts in this city tonight. Hal Clark of Milwaukee and Young White of Oshkosh will meet in the semi-windup. Jabber Jang of Neenah will clash six rounds with Ted Fredericks, the fighting barber of Appleton.

MORRIS MILLER

Clarence Mitchell, a southpaw obtained by Cincinnati from the Denver club is showing brilliant form in the training work at Shreveport, where the Herzog forces are training. Mitchell won twenty-two games last season and lost but nine, and he is expected by Herzog to make almost as good a record with the Reds in the coming campaign.

Billy Sullivan, who is trying to develop Hughie Jennings' pitchers, has made the discovery that Lowder, milk's failure to have control is entirely due to the fact that he does not follow his motion with his body in delivering the ball, but stands absolutely straight while in the act of pitching to the batter. This, Sullivan says, is what makes him wild, and if he finds a way to correct this fault Lowder will become one of the best pitchers in the league, because he has sufficient speed and control. Sullivan already has earned his salary from the Detroit club for he seems to have made a much improved pitcher out of Boehler, whose faults he has corrected and who is apt to be a winner this year. If he can make a pitcher out of Lowder will he will have accomplished wonders.

Hans Lobert may have a hard time getting the third-base job on the Giants' team this year. Shapert and Hunter, two recruits, are making the veteran hustle as he has never been forced to do before and there is, according to report, a good chance for one of the youngsters to land the job. Lobert, who in his day, was a really great ball player, has gradually gone back and has not been the matter to reduce and get down to playing weight.

If Frank Baker's batting performance at this time can be taken as a criterion he is going to be just as much help to the Yankees as he formerly was to the Machmen. But of course, the pitching he is facing nowadays is not of the caliber that he will be asked to hit against when the season opens, though his work during the training period with the stick would indicate that the big fellow has not lost his batting eye. He still seems able to sight the ball and land on it, although this early in the spring the pitchers do not have as many deliveries as they will be able to command later on.

Chic Gandil is hitting terrifically for the Indians down in New Orleans, and Manager Foul is delighted with the deal which brought the former National to his team. He says he is better fortified at first than he has ever been, and that the acquisition of Gandil will make a big difference in the showing of the Indians. In fact, the Cleveland team is not going to be as easy as many figured, for the reason that some of the youngsters are showing improvement, and Chapman and Turner are intent on having a particularly good season.

Whatever the price paid for Frank Baker the Yankees still hold the record for paying out good money for ball players and entering into amazing contracts. If Ruppert and Huston should decide to sell their club within the next year or two they may find a tremendous amount of liability in their hands to reduce the price they can get.

MADISON CLUB TO HEAR TAX QUESTION DISCUSSED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., March 17.—The Saturday Lunch club tomorrow will discuss the question of state taxes. The principal address will be made by T. E. Lyons, a member of the state tax commission. The question will be discussed by T. C. Richmond of the Home Rule and Taxpayers' League, and by L. B. Fagler, assistant secretary of state.

LAWRENCE COLLEGE GLEE CLUB WILL MAKE LONG TOUR.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Appleton, Wis., March 17.—The Lawrence college glee club is making one of the most extensive tours in its history this spring. The club is giving a concert at Manawa today. For the first time since the organization was formed, the singers will appear in a new and unusual way. They will give a concert in the Windy City under the auspices of the Lawrence club on March 29.

The Smoke of Men Who Win

A fresh-rolled "Bull" Durham cigarette almost says "Speed up!" right out loud. Keen-eyed, clear-headed young fellows smoke "Bull" Durham because it has the sparkle and the "punch"—the youthful vim and vigor. Every time you "roll your own" with "Bull" Durham you open the door to Hustle.

GENUINE

"BULL" DURHAM

SMOKING TOBACCO

"Bull" Durham is unique among the world's tobaccos. It is distinguished from all others by its wonderful mildness, its delicious mellow-sweet flavor and its distinctive aroma.

That's because it's made of the very choicest of rich, ripe Virginia-North Carolina "bright" leaf—the smoothest and mellowest tobacco in the world.

You get a lively smoke and a satisfying smoke when you "roll your own" with "Bull Durham."

FREE

An Illustrated Booklet, showing correct way to "Roll Your Own" Cigarettes, and a package of cigarette papers, will both be mailed, free, to any address in U. S. on request. Address "Bull" Durham, Durham, N. C.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Unsettled and warmer tonight and Saturday; probably light snow Saturday.

THE HATED GRINGO.

On this bright St. Patrick's day an American army has crossed the border of the sacred Rio Grande and is following into the fastness of the Mexican mountains the renegade assassin and murderer, Villa, and his irregular forces of bandits. The hated Gringo is on the soil of Mexico at last and the pennants of the cavalry troops lead the advance of a body of determined men seeking to revenge the murder of innocent citizens who had confidence in the stars and stripes.

It was way back in the days of Scott and Taylor, during the Mexican war, that the term "Gringo," came into existence as an expression of hatred and derision of the invading forces. "Green grow the grasses, Oh," sang the soldiers of the invading host and the Mexicans quickly abbreviated it into one word, "Gringo," and "Gringo" every American has been since that date.

Just as the Indians of the Pacific coast called all the early traders who visited their coasts, "Boston Men," because the New England ships first rounded the treacherous Horn and sailed up and down their coast, so all residents of the United States have been known as "Gringos" since the days of Forty Eight.

This punitive expedition that has bravely crossed the border line but a drop in the bucket if the present Mexican trouble develops into anything of a serious nature. The retreat from Vera Cruz by the forces sent there two years ago has been taken as a victory for the Mexican armed force by the ignorant followers of the republic. If they assemble in force, unless the United States is ready to meet them with a more determined and bloody conflict in which thousands of men will be needed for active service.

Just at this time the Mexican trouble may have been instigated by some foreign power to attract the attention of the United States to their own back yard and prevent any possible interference into foreign affairs. If, however, it does nothing more than demonstrate the absolute unpreparedness of the United States to cope with important military matters it will be well worth the effort, but it should prove an awakening that will have a lasting effect upon this nation.

THE HIGH WAR PRICES.

A farmer supply dealer serving a rural district was telling the other day about advances in prices, speculating as to who were getting rich out of it. He told as an illustration the experience of his own concern with dynamite. Before the war, they bought it for 12 cents. Now they paid 30 cents for the same article. Early in the war, they had stocked up heavily at 12 cents. They contented themselves with advancing the retail price to only 20 cents. They felt justified in asking this, as in many lines, they expected to meet losses on depreciation of values after the war.

This is a typical illustration of how the store located near home, dependent on the near-by community, tends to keep prices steady and keep out of speculation. But there are many firms who distribute goods over a wide area that would not question a moment about putting their dynamite up to 35 cents, even had they had it on hand at old prices. They take advantage of all fluctuations. Some big fortunes will result from the war in this way.

The firm that protects its customers may not be philanthropic, but simply is looking at business in a bigger way. The dealer above referred to said, that by keeping the price of dynamite fairly low, they pleased their trade, and did one more thing to build up a loyal patronage. Furthermore, had they jumped the price, the result would have been to check the use of dynamite. Farmers had just begun to buy it extensively for breaking up rough land, and a higher price would have stopped this in a large measure. He believed they would sell more dynamite in five years by keeping prices moderate.

But there are some business men who don't see a point like that. Perhaps it might apply even in the matter of the present high cost of gasoline. It is a general rule that the public does not like to buy articles, subject to large fluctuations, and that where prices go up very high substitutes are found.

TAFT APPRECIATED.

That Mr. Taft, not ex-President Taft, not Judge Taft, but plain, everyday Mr. Taft, if you would follow his personal wishes, is duly appreciated by enthusiastic citizens who recognize his real value and worth, is demonstrated everywhere he goes. His visit in Janesville was a revelation to hundreds. His journey to Milwaukee and his reception there were more like the triumphal entry of a conqueror than of a defeated presidential candidate. Taft is a bigger man today in the eyes of the American people than ever before. They appreciate him. They understand the wonderful conception he has of public affairs and they honor him regardless of any previous condition of political servitude. It is fortunate that this appreciation came during the life of so strong a man as Mr. Taft and not after his death, for it must be a deep satisfaction to him personally to know he is honored for himself alone and not for any office he holds.

THE DEMAND FOR COOKS.

A New York hotel proprietor writes to a newspaper in that city complaining of the "shortage" in finding competent men cooks. He thinks that cooking should be taught to boys as well as girls. He reports that many a chef gets him $10,000 a year, while a competent cook's assistant in a hotel gets $80 to $150 a month and board, rates of wages denied to many persons in more precarious employments.

It looks like a promising field of effort. But it is to be feared that men would cherish intuitive prejudices. They would like the pay, but don't take to wearing aprons. Even if they merely sat in an office and gave orders, it would seem like women's work.

The chances are that the women will capture most of these prizes. They are hardened to cook stove odors. They may have no keener sense of taste, and no greater constructive art in kitchen confections. But one would feel surer that their working quarters would bear inspection for cleanliness at all times.

HAMMER AND TONGS.

The various candidates for the nomination for councilman are at it hammer and tongs these last days of the pre-primary campaign and some unfortunately are losing sight of the provisions of the corrupt practice law which makes heavy penalties for aspiring candidates. It is going to be a whirlwind finish of a long drawn out campaign that ends next Tuesday, one that started last January, and it is to be hoped the result will be satisfactory to the best interests of the city as a whole.

The first robin, the first blue bird, the first spring flower all give pleasure to the average citizen. They are the fore-runners of the warm spring days after the cold and frozen winter. Why not aid nature by aiding in the feeding of these little feathered visitors and protecting the spring flowers by care in picking them so as not to destroy the roots and life of the plant?

That Janesville Tractor factory plant which is being built by the working men of the city, is attracting nationwide interest as an experiment in solving many questions relative to labor and capital.

After writing those spiritual verses about sunsets and the over-soul, the writers thereof are off to New York for the poet's dinner, where they will eat indigestible amounts of a heavy eight-course dinner.

Many of the congressmen enjoyed sitting on the top of the sharp picket fence much better than coming down on one side or the other and recording themselves on the McLemore resolutions.

If the gasoline dealers don't look out, their high prices will have a marked tendency to increase the use of that form of motor vehicle known as the electric car.

There are some fellows that will wave an orange colored ribbon March 17 at a fellow wearing a green necktie, and then find fault afterwards because their clothes are torn and dusty.

People who are learning to drive automobiles are urged to "keep cool," which advice they receive much like the man who is told by the photographer to "Look pleasant."

The American Voter Has Awakened To An Understanding That the Inefficiency of the Average City Government Is Due To His Own Inefficiency In the Selection of Men To Serve Him In Office

Candidates have been too often chosen because they needed the money, because they were good fellows, or purely from sympathy. Especially is it true of a commission form of government that your councilman must have qualifications other than those above mentioned to take charge of your affairs for six long years. When you employ a man to do certain work for you and certainly when you must make a contract with him for six years under conditions which make it rather difficult to void the contract, you should look long and carefully into the record of that man. You pay him a good, reasonable salary and you expect your money's worth.

It is equally necessary that the qualifications of the candidate for councilman be as carefully canvassed and discussed and that the man best able to earn for you his $2,000.00 a year be chosen for the job.

A Careful Consideration Will Convince You That Wm. W. Hyzer Is the Man For the Job.

TEN COWS REPORTED IN FEBRUARY TEST

Guernsey Cow Owned By F. O. Uehling Which Held First Place In January Again Makes Showing.

Although February is not an ideal month for dairy cows kept under ordinary conditions, the Rock County Cow Testing association reports ten cows with records over forty pounds of butter fat for the twenty-nine days. The Guernsey cow owned by F. O. Uehling, which held first place in January, made the best showing also in February, with a record of 1359 pounds of milk of four per cent test, yielding 343 pounds of butter fat. Following is the report as made out by Jos. Z. Feinberg, official tester:

NEW POLICE PATROL IS RECEIVED TODAY

Automobile "Paddy" Wagon Delivered to Police Department This Afternoon.

Janesville's automobile patrol wagon for the police department, all spark and span, was delivered to the city hall this afternoon and added to the machine and department. The machine and body, purchased at a bargain price, while small, is fully adapted to the needs of the department and satisfaction is expressed by the city officials.

The enclosed body has wire sidings with curtains, and a side door so that the patrol can be operated by one man. The body is painted blue and the chassis red. With the side door the driver is compelled to drive to a curbing to ride in the new "paddy" wagon. "Who is going to be the first to ride in the new 'paddy' wagon?" was the question asked at the police station when the car was backed into the room turned over as a garage. Cause of the fact that after twenty days is often handed out to violators of the statutes, no great demand for free rides in the new patrol during the next few days is anticipated.

Gall-Bladder Diseases Milk and Rest Treatment

The gall-bladder is a reservoir for the bile and holds about one ounce. It is filled between meals and emptied into the bowel as the food enters it following a meal. It is closely connected to the liver by tubes or ducts. This gall bladder and ducts leading to and from it at times become diseased and cause much trouble and suffering. When neglected an operation usually follows and the result is the removal of a much needed gall-bladder.
Warning!—The Milk and Rest treatment, taken in time, will save your gall-bladder and your health.

THE GIRL AND THE GAME...

Copyright 1915 by Frank H. Spearman.

With her hair in the wind and her eyes burning with excitement, the white-faced girl brought the astonished old machine to a stop close to the coach. Rhinelander and the conductor ran to greet her. Few words were needed in explanation, few were lost. Coupling the coach ahead of the switch engine and hustling the dep-uties aboard, the conductor from the rear platform gave Helen her signal. Helen opened the throttle again and away went Soda Water Sal, pushing the loaded coach up the line ahead. To Soda Water Sal a coach was a mere toy—a plaything; indeed, she felt as if she were only now coming into her own when she had something in her hands to push. And without showing the slightest appearance of strain, Soda Water Sal ate up the miles ahead of her like city blocks and got within sight of Seagru's two stalwart tools, who were trying to run away with the engine of the special. Indeed, the pair in the stolen cab felt quite secure in their quick getaway until Bill, acting as driver, looking back, saw a train behind and an ominous cloud of smoke pouring from the stack of Soda Water Sal—the conductor was firing for Helen and he understood his job.

In spite of everything the two outlaws could do, Helen closed up the gap that separated the coach from them, and on the front end of the latter the fleeing rascals could make out the armed deputies. Had there been any doubt in their minds as to the temper of the men pursuing them, little puffs of white smoke rising from the coach front, and the whistle of rifle bullets about their ears would have convinced Lug and Bill of the danger threatening them. Safety first was a household word with the two. Nothing of the disposition of martyrs had place in their make-up, and, abandoning the engine, Lug, with a word to Bill to ease the pace, descended the steps of the tender and tumbled down a soft bank to the right of way; his companion followed; a few minutes later Soda Water Sal, rounding the curve behind, stop past them with her reeling coach.

Overtaking the abandoned engine on a grade, a few miles ahead, the coach was again coupled to it by the Rhinelander party, and when the queer-looking combination reached the first passing track, the engine of the special, almost dead, was vigorously kicked by Soda Water Sal, together with the car, out into the clear. And Helen, with the more ventures of her legal lights clinging to the footboard and running boards of Soda Water Sal and others swarming in her tender and crowding the cab, again rushed the posse on to the scene of the trouble.

At the camp Rhinelander's forces were in trouble. Seagru's strategy had completely blocked them—everybody was stumped by Seagru's audacity. And while the leaders were trying to pull themselves together, Seagru's men were rapidly extending their possession of the disputed ground.

Storm, realizing that at any cost the situation must somehow be recouped, ran over to where Wood was watching the enemy and whispered to him. Whatever the proposal, the old man was startled when George Storm made it.

Wood looked toward the camp dubiously. "I don't know," he said finally. "That's pretty radical medicine. But Rhinelander isn't here and I suppose we've got to do something. It's a cinch they've got us beat out of three months' time in another hour, for if they once get hold of this section, we've got to drag them into court. If you think the old man will stand for it, George, slam away. You know as well as I do. But I can't take the responsibility."

"I will," cried Storm emphatically. He turned to the foreman of their switching crew, who stood near, and pointed to the engine puffing at some little distance. "Couple on to that outfit car, Carly, as quick as the Lord will let you, and get ready for a run."

Carly hurried down the track. Storm, giving orders right and left, asked Wood to send a crew of men to throw everything movable in the outfit car out on the sand.

Seagru, watching from a distance the sudden activity among Rhinelander's forces, watched the new developments with much curiosity and some little anxiety. He saw the switch engine speed down the line, couple to the outfit car and back away with it for a dash. In the cab all was excitement. Under Storm's orders, preparations were being made for a record dash, and as the engine stopped with the outfit car in front of it down below the second switch, huge volumes of smoke pouring from the stack into the blazing sunshine convinced Seagru that something was up. Rhinelander's laborers and track layers under Storm's directions parted and stood expectant at each side of the track on which Cassidy's house had been so unceremoniously dropped. Seagru saw, too late, what Storm's radical move in the fight meant.

Paid For the Advice.
Old Hunk (meeting a physician at the club)—Doc, what ought a man to do when he has an all overish feeling as if he were going to have an attack of the grip? Crusty M. D.—He ought to consult a good physician about it. Old Hunk—Well, that advice ought to be worth a dollar anyhow. Here it is, I'll go and hunt him up. — Chicago Tribune.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

Now's the Time.
Here, you discontented knocker, Growlin' 'bout the country's ills, Chloroform your dismal talker. Take a course of liver pills. Stop your durn eternal howlin'. Chaw some sand and git some grit; Don't sit in the dumps a-growlin'. Smile a few, you cuss, an' spit. Fall in while the band's a-playin'. Ketch the step and march along; 'Stead o' pessimistic brayin'. Jine the hallelujah song. Drop your hammer—do some rootin'. Grab a horn, you cuss, an' spit. Every echo with your tootin'. Smile a few and boost a bit.

Concerning Sleep.
Edison has come to bat With a theory astounding. Yes, a theory confounding. Says the human needs no sleep; Says we, all of us, should keep Right on working day and night, Plugging on with all our might. He who sleeps is naught but lazy. Sleep is for the idle man. Not for one who'd be a winner In the everlasting strife. That we call our daily life. System does not need repose. Some day sleep will be no more; It will be a crime to snore. Day will come, it is quite near. When no man will pound his ear.

Fred Keister Says:
With the president out preaching preparedness, the kuffruts clamoring for the ballot, and Theodore Roosevelt threatening to harpoon the elephant again, it begins to look as if it was going to be one heluva season for the common people.

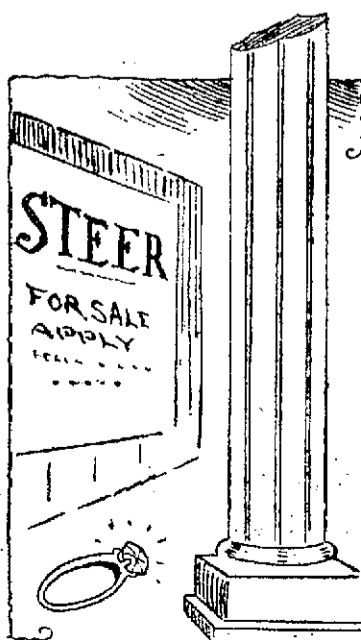

One Hundred Years Ago.
Correspondent calls attention to the fact that 100 years ago, 1816, was "a year without a summer." Will history repeat itself this year, it being the one hundredth anniversary of that momentous year? In 1816 it snowed every month in the year. And old man in Kentucky said he had heard his grandfather talk of that year and one incident had impressed itself on his mind. His grandfather said that he and his "girl" started for a Fourth of July celebration but were compelled to turn back on account of a terrible snowstorm. Nice outlook.

The Congressman.
In former years the congressman Cared for his country's needs By sending out to common folk Some fancy garden seeds. He loafed about in Washington And had a bully time. But now the way they're treating Is nothing but a crime.

No longer does he pose and strut And gawk in language grand. The good old days have passed away. He's working, understand. That teacher from New Jersey has Him walking chunk for fair. And when the whistle blows each day The statesman must be there.

Vacations have gone out of style. He's busy with his books. The time has passed when congress-men Could get by on their looks. The period is almost here. We're very much afraid.

AUTO KINKS

What part of an auto?

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

When congressmen will have to earn At least half what they're paid.

National Whiskers.
Arrival in congress of "Cyclone" Davis with a beard of such dimensions that collars are with him a superfluous not only draws attention from Senator Lewis' pink admoments, but directs it to the momentous question at hand.
Commencing at the top of the tree, the following chief executives were clean shaven: Washington, John Adams, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Andrew Jackson, William Henry Harrison, Tyler, Polk, Taylor, Fillmore, Pierce, Buchanan, Lincoln (when elected), Johnson, McKinley, Wilson.

The first full-bearded president was Grant, followed by Hayes, Garfield and Benjamin Harrison. Wearing simply mustaches the White House sheltered Cleveland, Roosevelt and Taft.

The Daily Novelette

Help.
I like the works of Mother Goose. The style is clear, one finds. Nor is the substance too abstruse. For ordinary minds.
Outside Rockwurst's grocery store, hung a box. Outside the box hung a sign. "Please deposit money for the blind."

"Ah, I always pitied the blind!" murmured old Mrs. Dewlap, as she passed by. "Why, they can't even see."

And she dropped some money for the blind.
"Oh, the poor blind! Along with their affliction, they haven't even the sense of sight to console them!" said Parson Peedles.
And he dropped some money for the blind.
"Dear, dear! I must help the blind. Poor things, they'd just ruin their eyes if they tried to see!" muttered old man McMillies.
And he dropped some money for the blind.
And so it went, until Rockwurst the grocer opened the box and counted the money.

"Just enough!" he said, with tears in his eyes. "How sympathetic and everything people are, almost."

And he bought the blind and hung it in his window and it improved the appearance of the store wonderfully. (The End.)

SERBIAN PARLIAMENT AND OFFICIALS ARE AT RISK.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Nice, France, March 17.—Nearly all of the members of the Serbian parliament, and most of the higher Serbian officials are now gathered in Nice, which may almost be said to have become the provisional capital of the Serbian kingdom, although not officially recognized as such. The members of the national assembly have held several meetings. But nothing has been done except to extend thanks to the French government for offering them refuge here. Meetings are held in a part of the Mayor's office, not as officials, but as the assembly, but as meetings of the "Club of Serbian Deputies of All Opinions."

The colony includes a number of officers and a hundred wounded Serbian soldiers, besides the statesmen.

TEN THOUSAND SKILLED MINERS WANTED BY THE BRITISH FOR DRILLING.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
London, March 17.—Ten thousand more skilled miners will be wanted on the British war front during the next twelve months to carry on the work of tunneling for the laying of mines, according to Robert Smillie, president of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain.

In making this announcement, Mr. Smillie stated that while a considerable number of miners were already engaged in this work the government wanted more and was going to appeal to the home office for them. These men, however, will have to be enrolled as volunteers.

WORK OUT THE DETAILS OF UNIVERSITY REPORT BLANKS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., March 17.—Although the state board of education has approved the general form of the report blank to be required from the university, the details of the blanks were being worked out with the university authorities today. The new report blank will be filed out but once a semester. It will estimate in percentages the amount of work given to teaching, administration and supervision. That part of the old blank asking for report on hours of preparation of material and class room work has been eliminated. The blank has been made general and will show the general character of the work done by each individual. This was all that the university authorities contended for.

NEWS NOTES from HAWAII

OF DAISY DEAN

Carlyle Blackwell, world famous film star, who recently made his debut in "The Clarion," has spent the greater portion of his moving picture career on the Pacific coast and its environs, that is if one by the stretch of the imagination can possibly describe Alaska and the Yukon and Honolulu, and the Hawaiian Islands as environs.
Mr. Blackwell's peripatetic life in search of the proper atmosphere, local color or whatever it is that the star and director may elect to call the proper location for the filming of a certain scene, have carried him into the Yukon country four times, and have jumped him from that land of perpetual snow and ice of the far north to Honolulu and its tropic charms. In all, Mr. Blackwell has made seven trips to the land of perpetual sunshine and "Aloha-Oe."

BERTHA DIDN'T WISH TO BE SHOT IN THE BACK.
Mrs. Kallen appeared in a film-play once a year or so ago and now again is to be shown in a series of new plays. She hasn't yet become accustomed to the picots, or slang, of the movie studios. When she heard a yell from behind her while she was in one emotional scene she jumped. It was the director who shouted. He was telling the camera man to photograph the back of her head and shoulders. Just the same she had a right to jump when he yelled, "Shoot her in the back!"

MOVIE ACTRESS HAS EUGENIC OFFSPRING.
A baby has been born to Gertrude Cameron Van Loan. Mrs. Van Loan, as you remember, was known as Miss Gertrude Cameron and was a star. She married H. H. Van Loan last spring on board the battleship New York, then in the Hudson. Secretary Josephus Daniels issued a special permit for the event. It was a so-called eugenic marriage, and attracted considerable attention. Everybody says the baby and mother are doing fine.

Recently Mae Murray rented a bungalow in Hollywood, Cal. She took possession of it during the rainy season, and immediately she acquired several fur rugs on which to sit before the fire. Immediately upon her purchase of the rugs the hot weather came, and now they say Miss Murray is trying to trade the rugs for furs of ice.
When Pavlova made her first picture, she received not only $50,000 and half interest in the picture, but also the promise of a complete copy of the film with the titles in Russian. The Russia copy, Mile. Pavlova will send to the czar of Russia. She believes in remembering her friends.

Blanche Sweet, who has appeared as a ragamuffin, an anarchist, a drug fiend and a mesmerist's subject among other roles, is to be "a lady" in the coming adaptation of Henry Seaton Merriman's novel, "The Sowers," a Russian political story.

And the Worst Is Yet To Come

NEWSPAPER ESCAPES CENSOR BY MAILING THEIR ARTICLES.

Paris, March 17.—One way of foiling the French censor in political matters has been found by the Parisian journals. The Figaro was ordered to suppress a cartoon by Forain satirizing the proposed nomination of parliamentarians as "commissioners to the armies." The publishers simply enclosed a proof of the cartoon to all subscribers.
Georges Clemenceau of the "Homme Enchaîné" has adopted the same plan with censored editorials, enclosing them under cover to all the deputies and senators, with letter postage. Subscribers of Parisian papers who can afford it will hereafter be kept on the inside of politics in this way.

Amusements

(Notices furnished by the theatres.)
AT MYERS THEATRE.

If there's anyone in this city who wants to become acquainted with the methods that an aggressive publicity man goes about his work, don't fail to see Ambrose Peale in Cohan and Harris' latest farce hit, "It Pays to Advertise," coming to the Myers theatre, Thursday, March 23. Ambrose Peale is one of those characters that is typical of Cohan and Harris' best successes, and in creating this character for "It Pays to Advertise," the authors, Ed Cooper Megraw and Walter Hackett, struck upon the funniest combination seen in a farce in recent years.

There's nothing but laughter in "It Pays to Advertise." Rodney Martin, the hero, is a rich man's son, having the reputation of being an idler. His father, partly to test the boy and partly to win a wager from a competitor, who also has a worthless son, has engaged a pretty stenographer to inspire ambition into the son. She gains her point by making the young man fall in love with her, and then, when the father casts him off as a part of the scheme, induces him to go into business seriously.

Thrust upon his own resources, young Martin is at a loss for occupation until a theatrical press agent comes along and propounds the value of advertising and publicity. Thereupon the young man decides to manufacture soap, and in searching for a trademark, hits upon "13 Soap, Unlucky for Dirt." The press agent agrees that this is a great idea because everybody in the world is more or less superstitious. With this start, the young man enters upon situations that splendidly show the value of advertising, as well as giving the audience the finest merriment ever brought out in a farce. How well the young man succeeds is simply told in the last two acts, when he is choked with jollity and clean fun.

Cohan and Harris will present their own company for this engagement, introducing such well known players as Ed Gwynn, M. J. Sullivan, Lucette Leland, James J. Mitchell, Daniel A. Anderson, James J. Gardner, Ruby H. H. Dudgeon, Felix McCallum, Doris Jordan, Page Spencer and Mason Emerson.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

"The Strike" which comes to the Myers theatre Sunday, March 19, is the strongest capital and labor play on the road today and is doing a capacity business every where.

"The Strike" tells the story of the working man's struggles against the capitalists. It tells about a young civil engineer who is struggling to get a bridge across a gorge, just as it is near completion, the men strike and one of the stock holders of the company tells some of the men that their foreman, the young engineer is fighting against them.

The men turn on the engineer and order him to leave town before sun rise or they will carry him out on a stretcher.

The next act shows the president of the board talking with the engineer. The president offers to take the men back and give them their increase in salary if he in turn will give up his daughter whom he, the engineer loves.

He then threatens the men that he will call out the militia, then the engineer says he will give her up and the men go back to work.

The drama, persistent in her love for the engineer, says that she will not

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I went to see a girl friend of mine about six months ago and she had a girl friend of her's visiting her. I got acquainted with her and met her there four times in two weeks. After leaving for her home she sent me a few cards and then started letters and has done so ever since. Her birthday is soon and she has asked me to come to see her but I can't get away. I would like to send her some kind of a present. I think if you think it is proper. She said she knew I loved her, which I do. I think a lot of her, but have talked to her only when the three of us were together. I think the two of us will be in love some day. We have written letters to one another. Send the girl a book or a good-sized box of candy. Flowers would be a good present. Ask a florist here to arrange with a florist in her town to have flowers sent to her, if you decide upon that gift.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Why is it that women are so much more considerate than men? I am a young married woman, twenty-three years old, and have the sweetest baby in the world. The first two years of my married life were very happy, because my husband's whole aim was to make me comfortable. But now he forgets to show the little attentions so dear to a wife, although he would go out of his way to be courteous to the girls at the office. Sometimes I just long for him to be as considerate of me as he is of these other girls. He is a good husband, provides well for me and never leaves me alone, but still it seems as though there is something lacking in our home. I guess a man doesn't stories of its perfections, but as for riding in it—why, you would scarcely think he knew that was what it was for.

We've all seen people like that. Last summer I lived near a river upon which several beautiful boats were anchored. One I especially admired. "How the owner must enjoy that," I said one day to a river habitué.

"Enjoy it!" he snorted. "Well, if you call coming down and polishing the deck for an hour and perhaps even trying out the engines, enjoying it, he does. But if you mean sitting in it, he hasn't done that this season."

No Accounting for Tastes. Of course people like to must get pleasure out of looking at and working over their possessions instead of using them, or else they wouldn't do it that way.

I must say that to me this gloating over possessions seems an inferior, less civilized and intelligent way of enjoying them, but perhaps I'm prejudiced.

One thing I'm sure of—that it's woe to the person of one temperament who gets himself or herself linked up with a person of the other. One of them is sure to be dissatisfied and unhappy, perhaps both.

Household Hints

Cheese-SANDWICHES.—One small can pimiento, one-half pound cream cheese, two hard-boiled eggs. Put all through grinder. Beat together one egg, one teaspoon sugar, one tablespoon flour. Add half cup milk (cream if you have it) to the mixture. Double boiler. Let come to a boil, add half cup vinegar and the ground ingredients. Boil all twenty minutes, then set away to cool. If onion flavor is liked add a small portion of onion extract. The recipe makes one pint and will keep in the refrigerator for several days. Makes delicious sandwiches using either white or brown bread.

NEW SPRING JELLY.—Crabapple and Apple Jelly.—Wash as well as pick over, two or three quarts of pounds of crabapples. Cut up four or six sour apples, skins as well as core. Add enough water to cook without burning. Then strain and add sugar, one pound for each pound of berries. Cook a few minutes (skim if necessary) and pour into jelly glasses. When cold cover with paraffin wax. This will keep a long time and is nice to have on hand at any time.

THE TABLE.—Horny and Potato Dish.—One quart hominy, six sliced potatoes. Put layers alternately in baking dish. Pour on one cup water with spoonful of drippings or fat, and teaspoon salt. Cook twenty minutes, then pour over one cup milk. Let cook twenty minutes longer. Serve hot.

Escaloped Potatoes and Pork Chops.—Prepare potatoes as usual to escalop. Cook thirty minutes or more before removing from oven. Lay over them pork chops, seasoned to taste; when browned, turn chops: when browned and tender, serve.

Oysters on Toast.—Eighteen large oysters, one teaspoon flour, one teaspoon butter, one-half cup cream, one-half cup oyster liquor, one-half teaspoon salt, three slices toast. Drain and clean oysters. Scald and strain oyster liquor. Scald oysters in liquor. For the sauce, melt butter, add flour and seasonings mixed, stir until smooth; add oyster liquor, cook until smooth, then add cream, and lastly the oysters. Pour over toast and garnish with slices of lemon.

Baked Potatoes With Bacon.—Prepare large potatoes for baking; cut in halves, lay on each half a strip of bacon, lay in pan and bake. Hungarian Red Cabbage.—One red cabbage, two sweet red peppers, one-fourth pound sliced bacon, one cup vinegar, one cup water, one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Slice cabbage and peppers (carefully removing seeds and white parts of peppers). Cut bacon in narrow strips and fry until crisp. To the cabbage add vinegar and water, salt and pepper, then pour over cabbage and peppers. Boil about thirty minutes, adding water if necessary to keep from burning.

Tomato Custard.—One pint of tomatoes stewed and strained, two pints of milk, four eggs, one teaspoonful of sugar. Bake in small cups quickly. This is a good dish for invalids.

"Spring Apple Pie (new).—Make apple pie in usual way, filling under crust with quartered apples. Add one-fourth cup sugar, then take one-half cup of any left-over fruit juice or the canned fruit itself such as peaches, pears, pineapple; pour it over apples, put on top crust and bake. You not only have a delicious pie but also a use for small amount of left-over canned fruit and a saving of sugar when fruit is already sweetened.

Appled Rolls.—Two cups flour, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon lard, one cup sweet milk (scant), a little cinnamon, three large tart apples chopped. Sift

Marian Townsend Gets Some Good Advice From Ollie Ellison.

"Yes, I suppose Ollie is trying to help in every way possible," said Marian Townsend, wiping her eyes. "I know I'm hateful, but I need her better when she confined her activities to the kitchen and spent her spare time in her own room. It makes me furious with rage when I see her sitting by Daddy's reading table and doing the coveted wife after all the ruin and misery she has brought into our home. I hate her hair, drawing her feel better." Ollie Ellison pulled the girl down on the couch beside her, drawing her to her shoulder.

"When I see poor Daddy lying there so patient and helpless and know just how he would have been all right if he had never seen that woman, I hate her," Marian's eyes blazed.

"Don't talk of hating people, Marian. Hatred is a terrible thing to harbor in your heart. You have seen plants all baked about the roots; the soil so hard that no moisture could get to the roots, haven't you? Well, hatred hardens one's nature so that no dew from heaven can reach one's soul. You can never grow spiritually while you hate anybody. Ollie drew the girl close to her while she talked. "Hatred is a boomerang that comes back and injures the one who throws it."

"Nothing injures her. She walks serenely on while she has strewn all our lives with wreckage. There is no justice in having everybody suffer."

THE COLD, MOIST COMPRESS

One of the most effective remedies for croup is unfortunately not available in households where the eighteenth century view of "catching cold" prevails—and catarrhal or spasmodic croups is usually prevalent in these very households. A mother who imagines her child gets croup because he has had his feet wet, or because he went out without his coat or muffler on, will hardly be slow to apply a cold damp cloth to the child's throat as a prophylactic or remedial measure.

When the child recovers with the symptoms of a "cold," and begins to cough in the night with that peculiar brassy, croupy cough, then is the time to apply the cold moist compress. It will often prevent the attack or even relieve the croup after it has developed. Here is the way to apply it:

Wring out a small towel, a napkin or yard square of cloth, in the coldest water you have at hand—lap water is never too cold. Wring it through-ly, so that it will not drip. Fold it quickly in a pad about the size of the child's head, and apply it to the front of the throat from ear to ear. Cover it with a piece of oiled silk or some waxed paper, and retain it in place by a few turns of bandage about the neck. If relief is not immediate, apply a fresh compress every five to ten minutes for half an hour or more, as it usually does, leave the compress on for a few hours.

The same measure is useful in the relief of acute sore throat, acute laryngitis, and annoying cough due to irritation or tickling in the throat. A cold moist compress is grateful in the treatment of headache, especially the headache accompanying any feverish state. Here it should be changed every five minutes.

While giving the cold moist compress, which is only properly administered to a patient in bed—and while giving a tepid or warm pack, always keep a cold compress on the forehead.

Moist cold produces an effect entirely different from dry cold as a local application.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Are hookworms visible to the eye? Are they anything like threadworms or seat worms in appearance?

Answer—Hookworms are about the same length as pinworms (thread worms, seat worms), but not so thick, and curved.

"Experience" Sets Us Right.
Health remedy for poison ivy in the West. I had a teaspoonful of ivy poisoning is not a skin disease, as you assume, but the trouble is caused by a penetrating oil thrown out by the plant. The best remedy is simply a thick lather made of common kitchen soap.

Answer—If it isn't a skin disease, may it be a mental aberration. The irritating principle is really an acid, and your lather is all right, though we must stick to our formula: Phenol (carbolic acid) one dram, glycerin, half an ounce, lime water one pint—to be rubbed on with the fingers.

Cream of Tartar.
Please let me know if it is all right to take half a teaspoonful cream of tartar every morning in a cup of hot water. I have no kidney trouble, but I am informed it flushes the kidneys and helps to eliminate poisons from the system.

Answer—It is all right. Cream of tartar is one of our best diuretics—that is, a good medicine to increase the flow of urine.

WOMEN CAN SAVE MORE MONEY THAN MEN CLAIM MADE BY THE ENGLISH.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
London, March 17.—Women usually spend more money than men and therefore have much greater opportunities for retrenchment than men, according to the arguments advanced by the government and its supporters in the general campaign for economy now being renewed throughout England. One of their best arguments is to point to the recent statement of a great English economist, who decided the changing fashions during the war. "In the middle of the big war," he declared, "the whole womankind of our country got out of tight skirts into full skirts at enormous expense in the twinkling of an eye. It does not cost as much to change ten clerks from civilian attire as it costs to change the outward semblance of one fashionable woman." Women are urged to wear one-color dresses which will give them the appearance of being smartly dressed and which will bear critical inspection for a longer period.

WHY FAMOUS PASTRY COOKS USE KC BAKING POWDER

The patrons of our first class hotels and restaurants are exacting—they demand the best. Women go where the pastry and cakes are noted for their excellence. Men are attracted by hot bread and biscuits—when fresh and moist and light.

The pastry cook with a reputation uses K C Baking Powder because he knows that results are certain; every time everything is as good as his best.

Then, too, with K C Baking Powder he can mix the various kinds of batter before the rush of the meal begins and bake as needed so that every order goes to the table fresh and hot, yet the last he bakes are just as good as the first.

The reasons behind these reasons is that K C is really a blend of two baking powders. One commences to give off leavening gas as soon as moistened. The other requires both moisture and heat to make it active. Dough or batter will remain in a partially leavened condition for hours, and when put in the oven, will come up as light as if mixed a moment before.

For cookies, pancakes, doughnuts and the like, which cannot all be baked at once, K C is indispensable. For all baking the double raise makes doubly certain.

Follow the example of the professional cook and your baking will be equal to his.

boy has had."

"Indeed, yes; but not a whimper from Henry. He's got the heart of a Roman soldier in him. And, do you know, the old skindint that owns that place has gone to charging that poor outcast rent on it?"

"Oh, you don't say—the old rascal!" chorused the two men.

"Fact. Why, that place was in such bad shape a nigger family moved out of it before these folks were dumped there by the Ladies of Charity. That old rascal has given an option on the place for $100 to a friend of mine. If Henry can buy the place and stop the drain for rent they'll get along fine. Rent ain't much, but a nickel looks as big to them as a cart wheel."

Mr. Ralston looked at Joe. He was white and breathing hard and strain, his ears to catch every word.

"So," continued the schoolteacher, "if he wins he can commute this scholarship for $500 and make nearly another $100 off the corn he sells. I'll personally see that the balance is made up and enough is raised to buy him a good mule and wagon. If he gets the chance he'll actually make and save money there. If he loses on this I believe it will be the last straw. I actually believe it will break his heart—his spirit—and take the fight out of him."

"What's his record?" inquired the other man.

"Two hundred and fifteen bushels at 15 cents."

"That's wonderful," said the first listener.

"Well, he's an experienced gardener by now, but it's a fine record. No record filed up to this time equals it, so I say that Joe Weston is the only one I am afraid of. A few have made a few more bushels than Henry has, but the cost was so much greater. Why, guess what that boy did?"

"Can't imagine."

"He went around town and cleaned out every chicken house in town to get the guano. He couldn't afford to spend much money on fertilizer. What do you think of that for resource?"

"Just splendid, and I hope the little chap wins," said the listener heartily.

There was very little talk at the table where Joe and his father sat. Nor did Mr. Ralston or Tom seem inclined to break the silence. All had heard the words of the man at the next table, and all seemed depressed and the life gone out of them.

When the meal was finished they went to the fair grounds and made for the Agricultural hall, where the Corn club exhibits were the first thing. It was a magnificent array and showing. The whole party went into 'cascades' over it.

A man in the center of the space where the Corn club exhibit was began shouting something through a megaphone. They stopped and listened.

"All entries for the contest for the state championship of the Boys' Corn club growers will close at 3:30, positively. No records will be admitted to be after that hour!" he announced.

"Half an hour," remarked Mr. Ralston, looking at his watch and throwing a sidelong glance at Joe.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for cod liver oil.
Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years, and cod liver oil's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain cod liver oil, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.
No grating is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated olive-oil-coated tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action. If you have a "dark brown mouth" and then a "bad breath"—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.
Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Home A NOVEL

By GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN

Copyright by The Century Co.

"Boy," said the Barbadian, "I've got a home and I'm going to see it, but there's no reason why you shouldn't come along. As for friends—the ones I left here won't get up to meet anyone till the last trump sounds. Come along."

You are the only company and I'm the only host in our party."
They climbed into the rickety cab and the Barbadian gave directions to the driver. The driver answered in the soft guttural of the West Indian black. Slowly they crawled through the crooked streets of the town. Gerry leaned back and gazed at the fresh buildings. They were all of frame-work. Some swelled at the top, and Gerry wondered why they did not topple over; some swelled at the bottom and he wondered why these did not cave in.

The Barbadian watched his face. "Funny town, eh?"
Gerry nodded.
Presently the found themselves on a country road. It was so smooth that the weighted carriage pushed the old horses along at an unwonted pace. Little houses—hundreds of them—that looked like big hen-coops lined the road. Suddenly the carriage came to a halt. One of the little houses was trying to straddle the road. From around it came screams and cries. "Now, then, yo' Gladys, when ah say left, yo' left!"

The driver poured out an angry torrent of words that tried their best to be harsh and failed. From around the obstructing house came an old darky. When his eyes fell on the Barbadian he rushed forward. "Lor, Misteh Malcolm, when did yo' get back?"
"Just now, Charles," said the Barbadian. "What's the matter here?"
The darky's eyes rolled. "Matfeh, Misteh Malcolm? Why, that ole Cunn-

"Have You Lost Anyone?" Asked Gerry.

nel Stewart he's jes' so natcherly parsimonious that he requires me to pay rent fo' havin' ma house on his lan'. So I says to ole mammy, we'll jes' move this here residence on to a gen'l-man's lan', and Misteh Malcolm me'n mammy 'n the chile are jes' a-movin' it on to yo' old cane fiel!"
The Barbadian laughed a little dryly and shrugged his shoulders. The driver got down, protesting, and helped the family carry the house across the road. Then the cab went on and soon turned up an avenue under a fiery canopy of acacia flamboyante.
As they progressed, thick, twining growths, spangled with brilliant blooms, walled in the avenue. The air grew cool but heavy with scents and the full-flavored spice of a tropical garden under a blazing sun.
The air made Gerry dreamy. He woke with a start when the Barbadian said to the cabman, "This will do. You needn't drive in. Wait here."

The cab stopped. Just ahead was the ruin of a great gate. The two pillars still stood, but they were almost entirely hidden by vines. To one of them clung the rusted vestige of a gate. Beyond the pillars there was a winding way. Once it had been a road continuation of the avenue, now it was but a tunnel through the densely crowded foliage. Along the center of the tunnel was a narrow path. Even it was overgrown. The Barbadian led Gerry down the path.

They came out under a grove of mighty trees whose dense shade kept down the undergrowth, and beyond the trees Gerry saw a vast, irregular mound of vines, with which mingled giant geraniums, climbing fuchsias, honeysuckle and rose. Then he spied a broad flight of marble steps at one end of them an old moss-grown urn, at the other, its fallen, broken counterpart. Above the mound rose the roof of a house; through the vines, as the two drew nearer, appeared shuttered windows and a door, veiled with creepers.

The Barbadian went up the steps and tore the creepers away from the door. Then he drew from his pocket an enormous key. With a rasp the lock turned and the door opened, letting a bar of light into a wide, cool hall.

Gerry followed the Barbadian through the hall to a broad veranda at the back of the house. A large living room faced on to the veranda. The Barbadian entered it, opened the French door-windows and, dusting off two lounge chairs, invited Gerry to sit down.
Gerry looked around curiously. The living room was comfortably furnished. There were one or two excellent rugs on the waxed floor; a great couch, set into a bow-window; lace curtains, creamy with age; a wonderfully carved escurtole to rosewood; a sideboard, round table and chairs of mahogany that was almost as dull and black as ebony. Over all lay a coat of dust.

The Barbadian walked to the round table and with his finger wrote in the dust, then he sat down in a worn and comfortable chair, a companion to Gerry's. He fell into so deep a reverie that Gerry thought he was asleep.
Gerry got up and walked around the room. His eye fell on the table. He saw what the Barbadian had written; simply the date of the day. But above the freshly written date showed another, faded over with dust, and above that another almost obliterated, Gerry leaned over the table. He could see that a long succession of dates had been written into the thick-laid dust. Beginning with the fresh numerals staring up at him they reached back and back through the years till they faded away into a dim past.

Gerry tiptoed out on to the veranda. Before him was a ruined lawn; in its center a cracked, dry, marble fountain. Off to one side was a giant plane tree. From one of its limbs hung two raved ropes. Against its trunk leaned a weather-beaten swing-board. Under the ropes, a wisp of path still showed, beaten hard in a bygone day by the feet of children. Beyond the lawn stretched wide hummocky cane fields. They were abandoned save for little patches of cane here and there, bunched up against little hen-coop houses.

"Got a home, boy?"
Gerry turned and found the Barbadian standing beside him. "A home!" he answered, his thoughts flying to Red Hill, "I should think I have and it's a ll—" Gerry caught himself but not in time.

The Barbadian nodded slowly. "I know," he said, "you were going to say it's a live one. Well, as to that, don't you make a mistake. This home is alive too—just exactly as alive as I am, for I'm the last of the Barbados Malcolms."

"Home," he went on, "isn't altogether a matter of cash, comfort and cool drinks. Sometimes it's just a gathering place for memories."

"There was a time when we whites stood fifteen to one over the blacks on this island. Now the tables are turned. A chap that only takes a drink every time he sees a white man would have to go to a mass meeting to get drunk."

"Lately they've been sending out scientific commissions from England to sit like coroners on this mound in the sea. They say they're going to bring the corpse back to life. I've been offered a big price for this old place but I'm not selling."

Gerry looked at the Barbadian's rather shabby clothes. "Why don't you sell if you don't want to work the place? It's worth money. I know enough to tell you that."

"My boy, not every man kills the thing that he loves best. This is my home. You read those dates written in dust and still you thought my home was dead. But it isn't dead. I haven't killed the thing that I love best. You can get cash, comfort and cool drinks almost anywhere, but I have remembered that memories travel only beaten paths."

Even as Gerry picked his way back to the waiting cab he felt Red Hill reaching out for him, drawing him. And during the long, slow drive to the quay he learned that he had passed the crossroads that had given so long a pause to his troubled soul. The Barbadian had opened his eyes. Doubt left him. There was but one road—the road back—and it was open. He wrote his cable to Alix with a firm hand.

The freighter reached quarantine after a quiet voyage twelve hours ahead of time and just at sundown. A tug hurried down the bay to tell them their berth was not ready. The freighter was forced to anchor at the mouth of the narrows. Gerry watched the lights spring out from the shadowy shores. They beckoned him to familiar scenes. Suteen Island had been to his boyhood an undiscovered land and the scene of his first wanderings. Bayshore he knew through constant passing by. In the sky beyond it, hung the glow of the summer city, here and there pierced with the brighter flame of some grotesque monstrosity.

Up the bay the dark waters forked into two bands that lost themselves in a sea and sky of twinkling lights. He could just determine the sweeping arch of Brooklyn bridge and the presence of more than one new Tower of Babel that broke the ever-changing skyline of his native city and made him feel, by that much, forgotten and an alien. But from all the myriad lesser lights his eyes turned gratefully to the high-held torch of Liberty. Beneath it, the familiar, tilted shield, the shadowy folds draping the unstanding pose, the strength and steadfastness and the titanic grandeur of the statue, carried their message to him as never before. It became to him what its creator had conceived, an emblem, and the myriad little waves of the bay, rushing to fling themselves at the feet of the goddess, became a multitude, eager for attainment, ready for sacrifice.

CHAPTER XXXIV

It was ten o'clock on a morning in early autumn when Gerry finally got free of the freighter and took the ferry for the other side of the river. He had left all his baggage to be delivered at the house later. The morning was clear but sultry. In the city the apathy of summer days had settled down. People glanced at Gerry's heavy tweeds and antiquated hat but they did not smile, for Gerry himself was such a sight as makes men forget clothes. The tan of his lean face, the swing of his big, unpadded shoulders, his clear eyes, carried the thoughts of passers-by away from clothes and city things. They seemed to catch a breath of spicy winds from the worn garments that clung to the stranger's virile body and in his eyes they saw a mirage of far-away places.

As Gerry reached his own house, he was outwardly calm, even deliberate, but inwardly he was fighting down a turmoil of emotions. What was he to find in Alix? Had he anything to give in exchange? Had he too much? He climbed the steps slowly. His hand trembled as he reached out to raise the heavy bronze knocker. Before his fingers could seize it, the door swung softly inward. Old John bowed before him. For a moment Gerry stood dazed. The naturalness of that open door, of the old butler, of the cool shadows in the old familiar hall, struck straight at his heart with the shrewd poignancy of simple things. Old John raised a smiling face to greet him but down one wrinkled cheek crawled a surprised tear.

Gerry held out his hand. "How do you do, John?"

"I am very well today, sir," said John. "Mrs. Gerry is in the library. She told me to telephone to the club and if you were there to say she wished to see you."

Gerry was puzzled. Why should Alix think he would go to the club? He banded the butler his old hat and strode to the library door. The door was closed. Somebody said, "Come in." The words were so low he hardly heard them. He opened the door, stepped inside and closed it behind him.

Dinner Stories

The girl was attempting to dance with a fat man who couldn't. The fat man was a great bungler, and he knew it. He gasped as they hobbled about.

"It's awfully kind of you to dance with me—me, the worst dancer in the room!"

Then he trod on her foot for the sixth time, and the girl replied:

"Oh how can you say so? Why,

In her gratitude for a remedy that saved her from the possible necessity for an operation, Mrs. Carrie Hefflin, of Coats, Kans., writes: "Had it not been for Fruita and Traxo I might have been on the operating table by now. It relieved me of at least one hundred and fifty gall stones. It surely does work wonders. My brother also had suffered for years and has been greatly benefited by Fruita and Traxo."

Fruita is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs, softening the congested masses, disintegrating the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expels the accumulation in an easy, natural way. Traxo is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach with most beneficial results and is recommended for use in connection with Fruita to build up and restore the weakened, run-down system.

Fruita and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Janesville they can be obtained at J. P. Baker, 123 W. Milwaukee St.

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.
By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

JAPAN MAY OBTAIN NEW BRITISH TREATY

Japanese Negotiating Concerning Anti-Japanese Agitation in British Colonies.

(By Associated Press.)

Tokio, March 17.—Baron Ishii, minister for foreign affairs, told the House of Peers on February 13 that Japan is negotiating with Great Britain concerning the anti-Japanese agitation in British colonies. The foreign office, however, denies the report persistently circulated in Tokyo that fresh negotiations are going on between Japan and England for the revision of the Anglo-Japanese alliance. The idea put forth, as the basis of the report, is that Japan seeks from Great Britain some definite recognition of Japan's superior position in China.

The alliance with England, as a result of which Japan declared war against Germany, continues a favorite topic of discussion. A good many disparaging remarks have been made about it by Japanese who feel that Great Britain is asking and receiving too much under its terms and that it has ceased to be an instrument useful to the Japanese nation.

Baron Ishii referred to these criticisms in his remarks before the Peers. He deplored them, he said, as exceedingly regrettable because they do harm to the friendly sentiments between the two nations. He regretted also that British residents in China occasionally gave voice to unfriendly utterances against Japan. But he pointed out that these criticisms should not be interpreted as the opinion of the nation as a whole.

At a recent dinner of the Japan Trade Association Ichiro Tokutomi, the editor of the Kokumin, declared that there prevails an opinion among a section of statesmen and politicians that the Anglo-Japanese alliance has become superannuated and should be refrained to meet the changed situation of Japan—the growth, or exaltation of her position and influence in the Eastern affairs. He considered it most probable, he said, that the time will come before long when this opinion will be seriously taken up and embodied in the form of negotiations for the revision of the existing treaty. He insisted that this view was shared by several members of the cabinet and privy council.

The present negotiations with England to which the Japanese press has been referring, he said, are believed to include the status and treatment of Japanese emigrants particularly in Australia, but refer particularly to an alleged boycott of Japanese goods in England. The case of those Japanese who are demanding a revision of the alliance with Great Britain is summarized by the Nichi Nichi. It declares that in Canada, Australia and other British colonies Japanese are refused treatment on an equal footing; that the British residents in China, official and otherwise are bent on curbing Japan's interests in that country; that Japan's position in China is of vital importance to Japan but that its predominance is not recognized; and that moreover, in case of misunderstanding with the United States, the Chinese questions the British government is known to be bent on avoiding the responsibility of rendering assistance to this country.

The newspaper further alleges that Britain is restricting Japan's free action in India. Under these circumstances the Japanese feel that it is natural that there should be a feeling of dissatisfaction concerning the alliance as it now exists. The paper further points out that Great Britain on account of the war is not in a position to protect her interests in the Pacific and has to depend solely on Japan in that respect. In other words Japan is now the only nation able to protect the interests of Great Britain and other nations in China.

The paper thinks that this position of Japan deserves to be fully recognized by Great Britain by formally allowing Japan to have her position in the Far East clearly defined.

CIGAR PRICES RAISED IN GERMANY AS MARKET SUPPLY IS EXHAUSTED.

(Special to the Gazette.)

HAMBURG, Germany, March 17.—Manufacturers and retailers have increased the price of cigars because of the further rise in Dutch exchange. The cigars that formerly retailed for 12 cents, are sold for 16, and on the more expensive grades the advance is greater.

The German tobacco market, of which Hamburg is the center, had when the war began but there were used up about a year ago and since then Germany has been obliged to depend chiefly upon such tobacco as came in from Holland. In addition to the increase caused by the rise in Dutch exchange, there may be still further advances because there is talk of a higher tax upon tobacco in all forms.

I Chew That Has Been Famous for a Third of a Century

HAS THE RICH RED BURLEY TASTE

Chewing is the only way to get the rich taste of the tobacco leaf. And the only form of tobacco in which you get the leaf as Nature made it is the plug form.

A chew of Spear Head plug tobacco has a wonderful flavor such as you never did and never will taste in any other tobacco.

That Spear Head flavor is unique, mellow, fruity, everlastingly delicious and satisfying.

Spear Head has been famous for a third of a century as the richest, tastiest of chews.

It's made of sun-ripened red Burley. And it's produced by the most modern methods, which develop the luscious flavor of the leaf to the supreme degree.

It is safeguarded at every step in its making. The factory is clean and sanitary—the processes are pure-food processes.

When the choice red Burley has been pressed into mellow, sweet Spear Head plugs you have a chew that simply can't be equalled.

Spear Head is the high-quality chew of the world.

Try Spear Head—you'll never again be satisfied with any other chew. It's 5c and 10c cuts.

PHILIP AND THE ETHIOPIAN

How the dusky proselyte was first converted to the Hebrew faith is of course unknown. The Jews were scattered widely, especially in the commercial centers of the world. Then, as now, they were money-lenders. Perhaps it was in this capacity as treasurer of the Abyssinian Empire he came in contact with some first-century Rothschild, who was intent upon doing good as well as getting a high premium on his money. Over the bonds and consuls the Hebrew may have peered into the Ethiopian's heart, and discovering its noble traits, coveted them for God. He may have paved the way for conversion by unfolding the miraculous history of Israel, to which no intelligent person fails to be interested, and whose truth few, if any, candid minds fail to be convinced.

But whatever the incentive of the proselyte may have been, the proselyte was a notable accession to the Hebrew Church. He showed the genuineness of his conversion by the long journey, which he took at his first opportunity to the seat of his new-found faith. This happy convert, to whom tradition gives the name of Eudius, hesitated not at the toll. As his chariot rolled along the banks of the Nile, under the tapering shadow of obelisk and pyramid, and by temple and treasure-city, no doubt he thought, "This is that Egypt where God did those wonders for his people."

Another evidence of the sincerity of his interest was the length of time he tarried in Jerusalem. He had gone up to the Feast of Tabernacles, but we find him staying on through the conversion of Samaria and the conversion of Stephen. However, that he was concerned in these events. Still a stronger evidence: He purchased a copy of the Hebrew Scriptures; and it cost him a small fortune. It was to be no center-table ornament. It was for use. Indeed he could not wait until he reached home; but in his jolting chariot, that rough Judean road, he was reading, not selfishly to himself, but out loud, so that his chariot, oater and whole caravan might have the advantage.

There goes the Bible-reading Ethiopian. But now another person breaks in upon the scene. How strange—unreasonable, in fact—the providence of God often appears! The revival in Samaria was at its height, seemed as if no one could shepherd the converts as well as the evangelist who had first brought them to Christ. But the Spirit called Philip away, and that, too, not to another populous city, but to a desert way.

In this incident it is as if the curtain were lifted, and we see the hand of God shaping events. The paths of these two men are made to converge. They come into conjunction at the moment when the nobleman's eye is on the passage which more than any other, contains the gist of the gospel. "Go join," is the military command. "Philip ran" is the military promptness of the obedience. He uses a witty jingle of words to attract the attention of the reader. The question anticipated a negative answer, and received it: "How can I, except I see some man should guide me?" The Ethiopian is a lovely example of the sincere inquirer after truth. No penitence of a destructive critic was in his hand. Nor was he asking with Pilate's cold superciliousness, "What is truth?" He had become a little child—docile, loving, trustful, of whom Jesus said, "Of such is the kingdom." He stopped the chariot. He took up the tramp, covered with sweat and dust, and oblivious to the fact that the eyes of all his attendants were upon him, he bent over the old manuscript with the wayfaring man. The place where he was reading was, "He was led as a sheep to the slaughter." Then Philip, taking that very verse as a text, and (literally) "declared to him the glad tidings, Jesus." The Ethiopian saw, believed, was baptized. That chariot was transformed into a car of salvation. On it rolled, with its head more precious than the ivory and gold of a continent. It rolled a thousand miles up the Nile, and carried the gospel to the heart of Nubia, where it has remained entrenched ever since.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

A summer shower drove some pious students of Williams College to shelter of a haystack. One suggested prayer for the heathen world. From such an event rose the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. John Stewart, a wayfaring man, converted at Marietta, Ohio, felt prompted to start northward to tell some one of his conversion. He entered the reservation of the Wyandot Indians. The tribe was converted. From this circumstance rose the Methodist Episcopal Church. A pair of embroidered slippers, admired by a native of rank in India, opened his house to the wife of a missionary, that she might teach his wives the art. Thus a woman's needle opened the zenanas. Does not the Providence which brought Philip and the eunuch together still order events for the spread of the Gospel?

The Ethiopian had no disposition to be a clandestine follower even of the despised Nazarine. In full sight of his glittering cavalcade he took the significant rite of induction into the despised and persecuted church of fishermen and publicans. No motives of policy control his action. He does not question, "What would my royal mistress say?" "How would this affect my tenure of office?" He put his light on the lampstand of the palace. In his shining his queenly mistress and all her subjects may have found life.

"He arose and went." In the quadrangle of those four words is compressed a world of obedience, faith, courage, wisdom.

GETTING POWER FROM OUR PLEDGE.

(Honorary Members Meeting.)
A pledge of whatever kind is the statement of an ideal. From the shadowy region of the imagination it has been evolved with care, effort and pains and plainly stated and exhibited to oneself in language. But it is far more than the mere statement of what is considered desirable. It is also the concise and earnest recital of the purpose to attain the same; negatively, by the avoidance of what would impede, the laying aside of the weights; and positively, by summing up all the powers and resources of one's being and concentrating them upon the attainment and realization of the thing proposed. Ideals are almost infinite in their number, variety and the range of their importance. It is a far cry, for example, from that of a pugilist to that of a poet. Yet each has striven to himself in terms more or less exact, what he desires to achieve and has already resolved to abstain from the things inimical and to follow faithfully the things that the supreme sphere, to define one's ideal in it is of superlative importance. To strive for its attainment is a noble and sacred duty. The Christian ideal of life finds an inspired expression in the commandment "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy mind, soul and strength, and thy neighbor as thyself."

Milton News

Milton, Wis., March 17.—The last number in the W. V. L. club course was given last evening by the American quartet of Chicago, before a delighted audience. The work of the quartet, vocally, was excellent, and the instrumental numbers were good. Mr. Conrad, the cartoonist, was the best ever seen here, and captured every one. In Mr. Gilbert the quartet have a cracker-jack in verbiage. Basso he was excellent as a violinist, an artist, and as a reader, a success. As a whole it was one of the finest entertainments of the season.

William Corbett, son-in-law of Mrs. Rockford, was fatally injured in the yards of the Northwestern railroad at Milwaukee this week, while in the discharge of his duties. Mr. Corbett's brother-in-law, and Mrs. Corbett went to Milwaukee yesterday to see him. He was alive last night when he left the city, but his physicians said there was no hope for his recovery.

J. R. Howard and family are again residents of the village. A. P. Hall is convalescing from an attack of influenza. Alexander Bell and Harry Nelson of Lake Forest, Ill., are visiting at F. G. Borden's.

Mrs. H. H. Pullen has returned from her visit in Minnesota. J. H. Granger visited his daughter at Roscoe, Ill., Thursday. C. W. Dunn and wife are spending the week with Madison relatives.

The Sons of Veterans held their officers' Wednesday evening with the G. A. R. Post and W. R. C. as guests.

W. G. Maxson is on the sick list. H. E. Drew, on the staff of the Milwaukee Daily News, was in town this week.

T. P. BURNS COMPANY THE BUSY STORE IN THE HEART OF JANSVILLE

CASKA IS POPULAR Many Jansville Citizens Trying It Daily.

Read What These Men Say of CAS-KA

OVER 600 TESTED
J. P. Baker was asked this morning just what connection he had with the sale of Cas-Ka. In reply he said: "The medicine is sold by our firm but under the supervision of Mr. McMillan, and may be returned at any time in the next month and the purchase price will be refunded. Our reason for taking up this proposition is purely a business one. Mr. McMillan has letters from leading druggists in several states and their statements of the enormous sale of Cas-Ka are remarkable. And I can say that I never had a medicine in my store of this kind that gives satisfaction. Cas-Ka has, and if you ask Mr. Baker he will tell you that in the short time it has been in his store he has sold more and has more testimonials of good results received than any other medicine in ten years. If any person tells you he has a medicine just as good as CAS-KA ask him who is taking it then compare with CAS-KA. An impartial list. Here are a few of the testimonials from druggists Mr. McMillan has in his possession:

Oshkosh, Wis., 7-14-14.
J. H. Bauman, President and Mgr. of Bauman Drug Co., Oshkosh, says I have been in the drug business a number of years and will say CAS-KA gives the best satisfaction and is the biggest seller of any Blood Purifier we ever had in our store.
Racine, Wis., 2-14-14.
B. A. Theeson, Mgr. Red Cross Drug Co., Racine, Wis., says CAS-KA was one of the best sellers we ever had. We sold 600 bottles for $1.00 a bottle last month after the CAS-KA Co. closed their sale here in Racine.

COUNCIL OPENS BIDS FOR OILING CONTRACT

Price Offered Higher Than Last Year.—Three Bids Are Being Considered By City.

The refining companies are "in the running" for the contract to furnish the city of Jansville with street oil for the summer, and at the special meeting of the council yesterday it was decided to have the bids tested by the city engineer, C. V. Kerch, before the award is made. The prices are increased almost fifty per cent over the price of last year, which was the lowest on record. Under the present plans, however, there will be no increase in the cost of oiling to the property owners, this amount being five cents per running foot.

Six bids were received and opened. The Standard Oil company bid $5.04 for light oil and $5.29 per hundred gallons for heavy oil. Last year the city was used exclusively, as it achieved the best results. The Huastec company of New Orleans bids on high standard Mexican oil, which is very rich in asphaltic qualities. The Indian Oil company put in two bids, the standard bid at $5.50 and the other a scaling bid of five cents with the price to increase or decrease according to the rise or lowering of the market. The sliding scale was to be based on the eighth of a cent a gallon, either up or down, as the market was effected, five cents on a barrel of forty-two gallons of oil. Last year a contract with the Indian company was $3.34 for oil 55 to 60 per cent asphalt. The commissioners were unable to obtain a guarantee that the sliding scale price would not rise over $5.60 and it is not though possible that the oil prices are very unsteady at the present time. The bids of the Huastec company of straight $5.50 may be considered if sufficient bonds be put up by the company to insure the oil against shipment of oil. This oil is obtained in Mexico from some of the greatest asphalt wells in the world, but because of the present conditions it is doubtful if good shipping facilities can be obtained. The bid of the Standard Oil company is $5.29 for the heavy oil, and if their sample tests out as well as the others, the contract will probably go to this company.

LARGER ATTENDANCE AT LENTEN MEETINGS

Increase of Fifty Percent Noted Last Evening.—Discussion of Topic, "The Church Family."

The popularity of the union Lenten meetings is growing rapidly. Judging from the attendance last night, there was an increase in attendance of more than fifty percent, a total of three hundred and sixty-eight being present in the fifteen meetings.

The largest single meeting was again in district No. 12, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kinnie, 417 South Academy street, forty-two being present. The largest total district attendance was in district No. 2, where two meetings were held, one at the home of Mrs. C. W. Brooks, 579 North Terrace street where forty were present and another with H. P. North, 221 North Terrace street where twenty-four attended, thus making a total of sixty-four for the district.

The topic was "The Church Family," the study developing the fact of the intimate relation which exists between those who truly belong to the church of God because they are spiritually united in the same faith in Jesus Christ. The words of Jesus revealed the fact when he said "I and my Father are one" and when He prayed that they all might be one in us. A congregation is not a church. A church is a family, a brotherhood sharing one another's burdens as well as joys, lifting up the fallen, protecting the weak, mustering the fugitive. As such it is the greatest and most wonderfully helpful family on earth because it gathers around the most wonderful center. The love of God the Father, revealed in Jesus Christ. Very helpful and interesting discussions took place in many of the meetings.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS PRESENT PLEASING PLAY
BEFORE SCHOOL TODAY

"Irish Luck," a ten minute farce comedy, was given by a number of high school students this morning during the opening exercises at the schools. Irish songs, appropriate to St. Patrick's day, were sung and the play was enjoyed very much by the school. The cast for the play was as follows:

Dennis Fitzpatrick, Theodore Davey, His daughter Barbara, Constance Allison.
Nora O'Reilly, Jessica George, Alfred von Schroder, George Spohn, Sir Michael O'Shaunacey, Stanley Ryan.
The Butler, J. T. Sheafar.

FROST DELAYS WORKERS
EXCAVATING FOUNDATIONS FOR TRACTOR ENGINE PLANT

Presence of frost in the ground is handicapping work on the Jansville Tractor and Engine company building. It was originally planned to pour the cement for the foundation on Wednesday, but the excavations, which delayed and it is not expected that this work will be possible before next week. The frost is still deep and extends down even greater than the depth of the foundation excavations. Material for the building has been unloaded at the site in readiness for active erection.

Get Rid of Pimples---Quick

By Using Stuart's Calcium Wafer.
Natural Little Blood Purifiers That Work Like a Charm.

Costs Nothing to Try Them

He—"How sweet you look."
She—"It was only removing those horrid pimples. Stuart's Calcium Wafers simply work wonders."

Don't despair if your face is covered with pimples, blotches, liver spots, or your body is covered in spots with acne, rashes, boils, etc. Just use Stuart's Calcium Wafers for a short time and see how quickly you will clear up your skin.

Pimples and eruptions of all kinds come from the inside. The blood carries out the impurities it contains and thus pimples, boils, etc., appear. Cleanse the blood, stop the poison from developing in the blood tissues and pimples will vanish as if by magic.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers contain in a natural manner the greatest blood purifier, calcium sulphide.

Calcium sulphide and the other ingredients of these remarkable little wafers are just what impure blood needs. You must know that the blood is rushing through our veins very fast. It takes less than a minute for our blood to cover the entire body.

You can thus readily see that Stuart's Calcium Wafers, when they enter the body, have an almost instant effect upon all impurities, no matter where located whether it be the tip of the nose or the ends of the toes.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers are sold by all druggists everywhere. Price 50 cents a box.

A sample package will be mailed free to anyone who will send coupon below.
